

Voluntary Work – Information for Participants

What is Voluntary Work?

Voluntary Work is a work experience placement which gives you the opportunity to gain skills to improve your employment prospects while also benefiting your community. A Voluntary Work placement can range in length but will generally be no longer than 26 weeks.

Your provider can assist you to find Voluntary Work and will conduct Work Health and Safety checks to ensure a safe system of work is in place prior to your placement.

Am I eligible?

All participants who are aged 15 years and over and registered in Workforce Australia Services, Transition to Work, and Disability Employment Services are eligible to participate in Voluntary Work. There is no requirement to be on income support. If you are in Digital Services, you can find yourself a suitable Voluntary Work placement.

What are the benefits?

A Voluntary Work placement provides you with the opportunity to:

- help understand workplace expectations and behaviours
- develop practical skills, increase your networks, build your confidence and update your referees.
- gain relevant and recent experience to help with interviews and confidence with meeting employers
- improve your awareness of different career pathways.

Under the Points Based Activation System, Voluntary Work earns participants up to 20 points if your provider established the placement or 5 points if you found the placement yourself towards your points target.

Who do I contact if I'm interested in doing Voluntary Work?
