

Local Jobs Plan

Gold Coast Employment Region | QLD | January 2023

Workforce Australia Local Jobs (Local Jobs) is a program that supports tailored approaches to accelerate reskilling, upskilling and employment pathways in response to current and emerging local workforce needs.

Local Jobs elements

Local Jobs Plan

The Local Jobs Plan sets out the skills and employment challenges and priorities of the region, and associated strategies that will drive the design and implementation of activities to be implemented to address these challenges.

Employment Facilitators

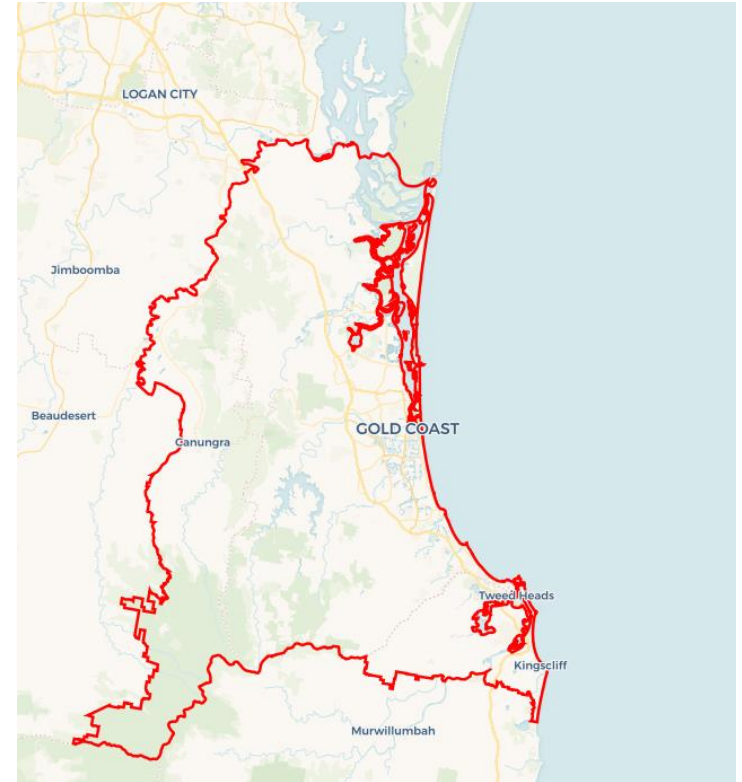

Employment Facilitators and Support Officers support the delivery of the program by bringing together key stakeholders including businesses, employment services providers, higher education and training organisations.

Local Jobs and Skills Taskforce

Each Employment Region has its own Taskforce. Representatives include local stakeholders who have demonstrated experience in upskilling, reskilling, and an ability to represent, connect and collaborate with others in the region to meet labour market needs.

Local Recovery and National Priority Funds

The Local Recovery Fund supports projects that meet the priorities identified in the Local Jobs Plan. The National Priority Fund provides funding for innovative local solutions to address structural barriers to employment.

Local labour market challenges in the region

- High levels of unmet demand for entry-level workers in essential services areas such as aged and disability care and early education.
- Shortage of workers to fill entry level vacancies in retail, hospitality, customer contact/call centres, manufacturing and construction.
- Public transport to the northern Gold Coast industrial precinct remains a significant barrier for individuals without a reliable car or licence.
- Current and projected gaps for skilled labour in existing and emerging sectors, including health, manufacturing and marine.
- Heightened risk of further entrenchment in labour market disadvantage for traditionally disadvantaged cohorts, including Indigenous Australians, youth, mature age, women, and long term unemployed.

Local jobs and skills priorities and strategies in the region

Priority 1 – Health care and social assistance (aged, disability and early education)

What are our challenges and opportunities?

The care and support sector are Australia's largest and fastest growing sectors, with vacancies across aged, disability and child care. Australia's population is ageing, and employment demands are expected to grow. Gold Coast is no exception to these trends, with health care and social assistance being the largest employment sector in the region.

How are we responding?

- We are hosting events online and face to face for businesses to meet employment services providers to educate career influencers about careers in the sector.
- We are advertising and hosting events for participants to meet employers and attend industry open day events.
- We continue to support recruitment drives through networking and weekly newsletter distribution.
- We host a Care Sector Reference Group to bring together key stakeholders including business, registered training organisations, Workforce Australia Employment Services Providers, Australian Apprenticeship Services, peak bodies and other industry groups to collaborate and share ideas and solutions.
- We continue to work with other programs that address workforce matters, for example, Industry Workforce Advisor – Community, Skills Hub and Boosting the Local Care Workforce.
- We continue to develop and promote tailored preparatory programs and training opportunities to provide participants with the skills they need to commence employment in the sector.
- Employment Facilitator continuing membership on national Influence the Influencer initiative.

Priority 2 – Manufacturing and construction

What are our challenges and opportunities?

As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, Gold Coast saw an increase in blue collar roles emerge, particularly in manufacturing and construction. The manufacturing sector experienced growth in demand of local product sourcing and manufacturing. This led to a staff shortage of entry level and skilled workers. This includes all manufacturing sectors, for example, marine, textile, food and other products. Construction continues to be in the top 5 largest employing industries in the Gold Coast, with labourers being in the top 5 occupations. This trend is expected to continue with projects such as the M1 Upgrade, Coomera Connector and Light Rail Extension.

How are we responding?

- We are hosting events online and face to face for business to meet employment providers to educate career influencers about the variety of careers in the sector and the different types of work sites.
- We are advertising and hosting events for participants to meet employers and attend industry open day events.
- We continue to support recruitment drives through networking and weekly newsletter distribution.
- We continue to develop and promote tailored preparatory programs and training opportunities to provide participants with the skills they need to commence employment in the sector.
- We are working with businesses to inform, support and build knowledge and capability in relation to funding opportunities in the region that support workforce development.

Priority 3 – Customer service (retail, hospitality, tourism and contact centres)

What are our challenges and opportunities?

The Gold Coast hospitality, tourism and retail sectors were largely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. The region experienced significant business decline, resulting in job losses. As the region emerges from COVID-19, business is booming, however a critical staff shortage exists. This impacts business operations and limits capacity for growth. Contact/call centres have continued to emerge, creating hundreds of unfilled job vacancies.

How are we responding?

- We are hosting events online and face to face for business to meet employment providers to educate career influencers about the variety of careers in the sector and the different types of work sites.
- We are advertising and hosting events for participants to meet employers and attend industry open day events.
- We continue to support recruitment drives through networking and weekly newsletter distribution.
- We continue to develop and promote tailored preparatory programs and training opportunities to provide participants with the skills they need to commence employment in the sector.
- We are working with business to inform, support and build knowledge and capability in relation to new and emerging economic opportunities in the region.
- We will continue to work with other programs that address workforce matters, for example the Industry Workforce Advisor – Hospitality, Tourism and Events.

Priority 4 – Preparatory programs for disadvantaged cohorts

What are our challenges and opportunities?

The unemployment rate in Gold Coast has fallen well below pre-pandemic employment rates in March 2020. More than 50% of the unemployed caseload continues to be made up of women. Whilst the unemployment rate continues to decline post COVID-19, traditionally disadvantaged cohorts, including Indigenous Australians, youth, mature age, women, culturally and linguistically diverse and long term unemployed continues to be impacted. There is a need to address barriers to employment and prepare these cohorts for the job vacancies within the region.

How are we responding?

- We are working with local Workforce Australia Employment Services Providers to discuss caseload demographics and understand the barriers faced by participants, to enable a collaborative approach to solutions.
- We are seeking and promoting solutions and opportunities for tailored preparatory activities to engage and prepare participants.
- We are facilitating connections between business, providers and other organisations, to educate the businesses on the existing labour market and support recruitment activities to engage participants.

Priority 5 – Industrial precinct public transport

What are our challenges and opportunities?

The northern Gold Coast region is home to a large industrial precinct spreading across both sides of the M1 Motorway between Yatala and Coomera. Multiple job opportunities exist for skilled and unskilled labour in these precincts. The current public transport system does not service these regions at times that workforce shifts are required. This disadvantages participants without a car and licence and impacts businesses attracting sufficient labour to meet business demands.

How are we responding?

- We seek and promote solutions across a network of stakeholders.
- The Taskforce provides feedback and contributes to intelligence regarding alternate services.
- We collaborate with volunteer organisations and other transport providers to establish solutions.
