6. Please keep a copy of the completed claim form and any copies of supporting documents for your records as we are unable to return them.

WHAT IS FEG?

FEG is a scheme of last resort that provides financial assistance for unpaid employee entitlements in insolvency. FEG assistance is only available where there is no other source of funds to pay employment entitlements to eligible employees retrenched due to liquidation or bankruptcy of the employer. FEG is administered by the Department of Employment and Workplace Relations (the department). Decisions about eligibility for FEG assistance are made in accordance with the FEG Act. If eligible, you may be entitled to receive financial assistance for the following unpaid entitlements:

- › wages – up to 13 weeks of unpaid wages
- › annual leave
- › long service leave
- › payment in lieu of notice – maximum of five weeks
- › redundancy – maximum of four weeks per full year of service.

Please note some entitlements are subject to maximum capping thresholds.

Further information is available on the FEG website. You can also contact the FEG Hotline on 1300 135 040 or the insolvency practitioner managing your former employer's affairs for more information about FEG.

- (b) to comply with any request under section 95C of the Privacy Act.

The Attorney-General's Department is authorised to operate the DVS Hub for the purpose of verifying individual's identities under the Identity Verification Services Act 2023 (Cth) (IVS Act).

For more information on how the Attorney-General's Department may handle your personal information, see the Attorney-General's Department's 'Privacy Statement – Identity Verification Services' at: www.idmatch.gov.au/resources/privacy-statement-identity-verification-services.

How will the document issuer handle your personal information?

Your personal information will be shared by the Attorney General's Department via the DVS Hub with the government agency that issued your identity document to verify it against their official records. These agencies already hold your personal information as part of their official records, in line with their own privacy policies and legal obligations.

What happens if you don't provide your personal information?

You do not have to agree to verify your identity documents through the DVS. However, if you do not provide the personal information we require to verify your identity, we may not be able to assess your FEG claim.

The Attorney-General's Department's verification assistance service

There may be circumstances in which we will require assistance to verify your identity. If we request assistance from the Attorney-General's Department to verify your identity through the DVS, the Attorney-General's Department will collect your personal information for the purposes of verifying your identity document(s) through the DVS.

The Attorney-General's Department may also disclose your personal information to the relevant document issuer to assist them with verifying your identity documents. This collection is authorised under APP 5.2(c) and section 27 of the IVS Act which permits the collection of your personal information from someone other than yourself when it is authorised under an Australian law.

The Attorney-General's Department will handle your personal information in accordance with their obligations under the Privacy Act.

Where the identity document(s) you require to be verified include information regarding other individuals (such as a Medicare card covering multiple individuals), it will be assumed that you have advised those individuals and obtained their consent to the disclosure. This information will only be used for the purposes of verifying your identity document(s) through the DVS. Any personal information of other individuals will otherwise be managed in the same way as your personal information.

There may be overseas disclosure of your personal information to recipients located in New Zealand where New Zealand government agencies or private organisations request for verification assistance of your identity document(s).

If you don't provide your personal information to the Attorney-General's Department, the Department will be unable to verify your identity document(s).

More information about the verification assistance service is set out in the Attorney-General's Department's Identity Verification Services Privacy Statement.

17. I acknowledge and agree that, notwithstanding paragraph 14 above, if I have given information about my former employer honestly and to the best of my knowledge but it is subsequently determined that my true former employer was not, in fact, the party that I have identified as my former employer in this claim form:

 - b) in consideration for such extinguishment, I assign to the Commonwealth absolutely all right, title and interest I have in respect of any claim against, or right to recover unpaid employee entitlements from, any party that has been determined to be my true employer, up to the quantum of any FEG assistance provided to me by the Commonwealth;
 - c) the Commonwealth may exercise any rights associated with the claim identified in paragraph 17(b) above, including lodging a proof of debt and/or voting at any meetings of creditors; and
 - d) I agree to promptly take all steps as are reasonably required by the Commonwealth to enable the Commonwealth's rights to the claim identified in paragraph 17(b) above to be recognised by any insolvency practitioner appointed to the true employer entity, including providing any information requested by the department in relation to that entity.
18. I acknowledge and agree that if I receive any payment in relation to my claim for FEG assistance pursuant to a declaration made under section 49 of the FEG Act and my former employer subsequently enters into a Deed of Company Arrangement:
- a) the Commonwealth will extinguish any debt that may become owing by me pursuant to either paragraph 14 above or section 52 of the FEG Act in respect of the FEG assistance provided to me;

I've lodged my completed claim form and all mandatory documents—what happens next?

After ensuring that your claim is effective (and sending you confirmation), we gather information to help us determine if you are eligible for assistance and, if so, the amount you are entitled to. This usually involves us liaising with the insolvency practitioner managing your former employer's business affairs or we may request further information from you.

We will use this information to assess and calculate your outstanding employment entitlements, including any deductions that are required by law to be made, such as pay as you go (PAYG) tax or child support payments.

We will make a formal decision on whether you are eligible for FEG assistance and, if you are eligible, the amount of FEG assistance payable to you. We will advise you of our decision, and make the payment to your nominated bank account.

We aim to complete these steps within 14 weeks of receiving an effective claim.

MANDATORY DOCUMENTS THAT MUST BE RECEIVED BY THE DEPARTMENT TO MAKE YOUR CLAIM EFFECTIVE

Important!

Your claim will not be effective if the department receives these documents after the end of 12 months that begin at the later of the:

- › date your employment ended, or
- › insolvency event date. This is generally the date a liquidator was appointed to your former employer, or the date your former employer becomes bankrupt.

Acceptable evidence of your Australian citizenship or residency status at the time your employment ended

As stated in question A10, to be eligible for FEG assistance, at the time your employment ended you must have:

- › been an Australian citizen, or
- › held a permanent Australian visa (ie your visa let you stay in Australia indefinitely), or
- › held a special category visa (ie your visa let you stay and work in Australia as long as you remain a New Zealand citizen).

Before assessment of your claim can commence, you must provide evidence of your Australian citizenship or residency status. Acceptable evidence of your Australian citizenship or residency status includes a copy of at least one of the following categories of documents:

If you are an Australian Citizen

- › an Australian passport issued no later than the date of the end of your employment, or
- › a full Australian birth certificate. Extracts of a birth certificate are insufficient, or
- › an Australian citizenship certificate issued prior to the end of your employment. Including both sides if there is anything on the reverse side, or a registration by Descent document

If you are a permanent resident

- › a copy of a passport that is linked to an official online record of your permanent Australian visa, and which confirms that the visa was issued prior to the end of your employment, or
- › An ImmiCard that is linked to an official online record of your permanent Australian visa, and which confirms that the visa was issued prior to the end of your employment, or
- › a full Visa Entitlement Verification Online (VEVO) check that includes your Passport number, Visa type and grant date, or
- › a copy of the visa label from your passport (passport details must be visible)

If you are a special category visa holder

- › a current New Zealand passport that is linked to an official online record of your Special Category Visa, and which confirms that the visa was issued prior to the end of your employment, or
- › a full Visa Entitlement Verification Online (VEVO) check that includes your Passport number, Visa type and grant date, or
- › a New Zealand passport that was current at the end of your employment or,
- › if your passport had expired, the most recent expired New Zealand passport that you held at the time you entered Australia prior to working for the employer

Where none of the above documents are available

- › Confirmation of Identity and Citizenship for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people where other documentation is not available. Available on the FEG website.

Please note: your driver's licence is not acceptable evidence of your citizenship or residency status.

You may either provide a copy of the document, or verify the details of the document through the FEG online claim form.

Acceptable evidence of your former name (required only if you were known by another name)

Where the name on the document does not match the name that you are claiming under you will also need to provide proof of the change of name by providing one of either:

- › Change of Name Certificate, or
- › Marriage Certificate.

Important: The department verifies the authenticity of the aforementioned mandatory documents that you provide by requesting confirmation of the document from the agency or organisation that issued the document.

GUIDANCE MATERIAL FOR COMPLETING YOUR CLAIM

A3 – If the name on the residency documents you provide is different to the name on your claim form, you must provide evidence supporting your name change.

A9 – Email is the recommended correspondence method. If you do not have an email address to which we can send correspondence regarding your claim, we will send all correspondence via post.

A10 – To be eligible for FEG assistance, you must have had the right to reside in Australia permanently at the time your employment was terminated. You must also have evidence of residency or citizenship status.

You must have either:

- › been an Australian citizen, or
- › held a permanent Australian visa, or
- › held a special category visa (subclass 444 visa - New Zealand citizens only).

A11 – The General Employee Entitlements and Redundancy Scheme (GEERS) is an earlier scheme similar to FEG.

B1 – An Australian Business Number (ABN) is a unique 11 digit number that identifies a business. A nine digit Australian Company Number (ACN) is a similar identifier. Your employer's ABN or ACN can usually be found on your payslip, contract, PAYG tax summary, or can be found on the ABN Lookup tool at abr.business.gov.au.

B2 – Your former employer's legal name is the name of the entity, and may be different to the trading name of the business. It may usually be found on your payslip, employment contract, payment summary and/or your Employment Separation Certificate.

B9 – The industry you work in is the general type of trade or job area, such as transport, manufacturing, construction, cleaning, and hospitality.

B10 – Your job duties are the key kinds of tasks that you had to complete to carry out your job. Examples of duties you did in your job are ordering stock, retail sales, welding, metalwork, delivering goods, and bricklaying.

B11 – Examples of trade or educational qualifications are Certificates I-IV, Diplomas or Bachelor's degrees. Examples of professional associations are the Institute of Chartered Accountants or Engineers Australia.

B15 – Base weekly wage (also called your ordinary weekly wage) is your weekly wage, before tax, excluding any allowances, overtime and commission payments.

B16 – If the number of hours you worked each week was not consistent, please include an estimate by averaging the number of hours you worked in a four week period, for example if you were a casual employee and you worked 10 hours in week one; 15 hours in week two; 10 hours in week three and 25 hours in week four, your average number of hours would be worked out as follows: (10 + 15 + 10 + 25) divided by 4 = 15 hours.

B17 – Did an event occur such as a pay rise, pay cut, change of duties, change of job title, or a change in employment status (such as from a contractor to an employee)?

C4 – 'When did you resign', means the date you gave your employer notice of resignation; rather than the day you last worked. For example, if you let your employer know on 18 July 2019 that you would finish up on 1 August 2019, the date you would provide at this question is 18 July 2019.

C5 – Your employment may have been terminated by your former employer without a notice of termination, for example the doors to the business premises were locked. Or, you may have received a termination notice letter from an insolvency practitioner who may be the administrator, receiver/manager, bankruptcy trustee, or liquidator managing your former employer's affairs.

C7 – You will have had two periods of employment if you resigned to move interstate, or take up a different position, but were later rehired by your former employer after applying, or being made an offer to return.

D2 – If you are unsure what type of employment entitlements you may be owed by your former employer, please call the Fair Work Infoline on 13 13 94. Your best estimates for each entitlement category are acceptable, if you are not sure about the precise amounts owed to you. You will not be penalised for an honest attempt to provide this information.

If you answered yes to this question, you may be asked to provide documents to prove the entitlements you believe you are owed; it is in your interest to include with your claim form copies of all documents that may help us to assess your claim (eg bank statements, payslips, separation certificate).

D4 – Examples might include seeking union assistance, obtaining legal advice, contacting your former employer to pay the amounts owed, and contacting the Fair Work Ombudsman. If you have taken any such steps, please provide copies of relevant documents.
