

Workforce Australia - Employability Skills Training

Service Delivery Plan 2022-2027 for Participants

About our program

Are you looking to improve your job skills and get yourself job-ready in the Alice Springs area? We work closely with local businesses, Indigenous organisations, and local and government agencies to create train-ing programs that are perfect for local job opportunities. Bamara has designed services for Employability Skills Training that will get you up to speed and ready to take on a new position with a local employer.

Services

- We have culturally safe and welcoming office spaces, and over 30% of our staff are Indigenous.
- Our team works with you to understand your career goals, skills, interests and what you are good at.
- Our Digital Champions will help you with training to develop your computer and digital literacy skills.
- We help you understand the requirements for entry-level jobs and future career pathways.
- We will teach you how to write a resume and cover letter and will assist in lodging your first job application.
- We will prepare you for how to conduct job interviews and will provide practical feedback for improvement.
- We connect you to local employers and run workshops led by local industry professionals, so you know all about job opportunities best for you.
- We arrange presentations by people who have been through the job searching process and can help you understand how it all works.
- We can arrange apprenticeships and traineeships through our network of local employers from different industry areas.
- We can help you with the workwear and equipment you need to start in your new job.

About us

We are an Indigenous-owned company that helps build and strengthen Indigenous and non-Indigenous communities across Australia.

Bamara means “Helper, Friend, Companion” in Yolngu Language in Arnhem Land, and that’s who we are.

Education, employment and training have always been fundamental to Bamara’s commitment to helping local communities prosper across New South Wales, Queensland and Northern Territory.
